DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. The claim objections of 2/28/08 have been overcome by the amendment filed 5/15/2008.
2. The rejections under 35 U.S.C. 112 1st and 2nd paragraph have been overcome by the amendment filed 5/15/08.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Applicants are not enabled for treatment of Alzheimer's disease.

The factors to be considered in determining whether a disclosure meets the enablement requirements of 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, have been described in In re Wands, 858 F.2d 731, 8 USPQ2d 1400 (Fed. Cir., 1988). The court in Wands states, "Enablement is not precluded by the necessity for some experimentation, such as routine screening. However, experimentation needed to practice the invention must not be undue experimentation. The key word is 'undue', not 'experimentation'" (Wands, 8 USPQ2d 1404). Clearly, enablement of a claimed invention cannot be predicated on the basis of quantity of experimentation required to make or use the invention. "Whether undue experimentation is needed is not a single, simple factual determination, but rather is a conclusion reached by weighing many factual considerations" (Wands, 8 USPQ2d 1404). Among these factors are: (1) the nature of the invention; (2) the breadth of the claims; (3) the state of the prior art; (4) the predictability or unpredictability of the art; (5) the relative skill of those in the art; (6) the amount of direction or guidance presented; (7) the presence or absence of working examples; and (8) the quantity of experimentation necessary.

Consideration of the relevant factors sufficient to establish a prima facie case for lack of enablement is set forth herein below:

(1) The nature of the invention and (2) the breadth of the claims:

The claims are drawn to a method of treating Alzheimer's disease through inhibition of H3 receptors by administering compounds with comprising a phenyl ring connected to a C(O)piperazinyl or C(O)-1,4-diazepane ring at the para position and connected to an O-(CH₂)₃piperidine ring at the 1-position.

(3) The state of the prior art and (4) the predictability or unpredictability of the art:

Hull et al. (Drugs, 2006, 66(16), 2075-93) teach that there are no disease-modifying therapies for Alzheimer's disease (abstract).

(5) The relative skill of those in the art:

One of ordinary skill in the art is a Ph.D. scientist.

(6) The amount of direction or guidance presented and (7) the presence or absence of working examples:

The specification does not provide guidance for the treatment of Alzheimer's disease. Guidance one might expect to see would be drawn to showing that patients with Alzheimer's disease show marked and/or measurable improvement while under the administration of pharmaceutical compositions containing compounds of claim 1.

(8) The quantity of experimentation necessary:

Considering the state of the art as discussed by the references above, particularly with regards to claim 7 and the high unpredictability in the art as evidenced therein, and the lack of guidance provided in the specification, one of ordinary skill in the art would be burdened with undue experimentation to practice the invention commensurate in the scope of the claims.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1-3 are allowed.

6. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Beavers et al. (US7314937 issued January 1, 2008, claims priority to March 23, 2001) teach compound 173 (columns 131-132). This compound fails to anticipate or render obvious compounds of claims 1-3 because variable R¹ is a hexahydropyrrolo[1,2-a]pyrazine-2(1H)-carbonyl group. This ring does not anticipate or render obvious compounds of the elected group because a bridge is formed between variables R^{5a} and R^{4a}, not two different instances of variable R^{4a}. A bridge can only be formed by two different instances of variable R^{4a} (claim 1, lines 23-24).

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
